New Business

E. Fernández was elected chair.

M. Miller introduced the idea of the Library offering an undergraduate Information Literacy minor. The discussion recapitulated the instructional role the Library currently plays in the undergraduate curriculum, and how an IL minor would supplement support classes injected into English 110 and SEEK 100 and on-demand supplements to upper division courses.

B. Gorges reported on the status of ePortfolios at CUNY, where LGACC plays a flagship role. QC is part of the first cohort to work with ePortfolios at CUNY. The package used is called Epsilen, developed at Purdue and currently owned by the New York Times. The primary target audiences include Education (which already uses paper portfolios to satisfy accreditation requirements), GSLIS, and FYI/English. There is a web site with reference material at <http://qcpages.qc.cuny.edu/edtech/eportfolios/>.

Adjournment

The meeting was adjourned at 3:30. The next meeting was tentatively scheduled for November 18.
